The advantage to affiliate marketers is that they don't need to have their own products and they don't have to worry about shipping and inventory. All that is taken care of by the merchant. You just have to focus on driving traffic.

Even for business owners and merchants, affiliate marketing is an excellent way to grow their business. Most companies and product owners have an affiliate program where they encourage people to join their program and promote their products.

When you have a large army of affiliates promoting your product, you don't have to do much marketing. They will try their best to get you traffic which will hopefully result in lot of sales for you.
