Tips To Employ Before Buying Links

It may sound good but site wide links are actually not all that hot as it means that links are all over the site, nearly in every page. An example could be that site having ten thousand pages offering ten thousand backlinks. The point is that Google usually ignores many of the links which are emanating from the same site. This means that though all the ten thousand backlinks may not be treated as pointers but you would still get some value nevertheless.br /

Other methods of buying backlinks include article and directory submission as well as from blog networks. It is suggested that you do not buy several directory submitter services as in all likelihood, they point towards matching sites. To locate the best type of directory submissions, you have to do some extensive research. A good deal is when you get a thousand directory submissions.br /

Article submission also holds the same rules so when buying such services make sure that submissions are not made to the same directories and hence it is wise to ask for lists or samples of directories where such submissions would be made. You would be considered to have got yourself a good deal if you get a thousand article directory submissions. Your search for bettering the deal ends here, as after this, it is going to be really tough work.br /

Understand that backlinks purchase means that a lot of links are directed towards your site. Though this is good, just ensure that you use several versions of anchor text links. Create some variations of your main keyword and use all of them, some six or eight variations are probably enough. Variation in the keywords mean when you make new keywords out of the main keywords keeping the main keywords as it is. Do not give this matter too much importance except make sure that there are variations made at times. Another important thing to look for when buying backlinks on a network of blogs is that the blogs are not on the same IP address. Pageranks are not that important for the blogs but they must all be indexed, to say the least.br /

Some deals could include purchase of links of pagerank sites which are high on the ladder, but such links are priced very high. Such deals should not be struck with a low budget but if you buy many links from sites which have zero to low pagerank, it could still make good business sense. At the very least, always make sure the websites are at least indexed and then your a href=http://www.homebusinessideasfree.com target=_blankhome based business/a will be on the road to quality traffic.br /
