Clickbank - This is probably the most successful one for complete beginners, it is also the one that many people have seen quite a bit of success. Although you want to diversify the amount of affiliate marketing networks that you use, people do stay on this single one and see a great deal of profit.

Pros - The pros of Clickbank are numerous. Not only will you have unlimited selection of digital products, but you will have a wide variety of niches to choose from, many times; niches that you would not even expect to be profitable. Not only that, but the products are delivered instantly simply because they're all digital - if you start profiting in the long run, you'll be able to switch to weekly pay-outs and have money either sent to you by mail or by direct deposit!

Cons - There are some products that look scammy, but really aren't. Also the refund rate on specific products may be increased because the product can overhype itself. Also, all the products are digital, so you'll be out of luck if you want to sell physical products such as computer software, clothing, etc.

Commission Junction - This is one of the more professional looking and feeling affiliate marketing networks. You can simply sign up for the program and be a publisher (affiliate marketer) for literally thousands of companies, both major and minor. You will actually be able to sell physical products such as clothing, video games, cell phones, anything under the sun.

Pros - Ability to sell physical products, professional interface to work with, and unlimited income potential, definitely a great place to begin and start making money.

Cons - Can be confusing for many beginners, it is recommended that you read the policies and take tutorials on how to use the affiliate program. It can also be kind of hard to get accepted for certain affiliate products.
