But why would you want to invest your companys hard earn money in promotional items? What benefit has haphazardly spending money on items and giving them to potential customers and existing loyal customers possibly got?br /

br /

Well, for a start, it is reminding your customers that you exist. In the near future when they are considering another purchase of the products that you readily supply, you are reminding them that you exist and hoping that they will decide to come back to you. Your promotional items are at hand on their desks, in their pockets, ready for use in their bags and wherever and you are no doubt hoping that they will see these items at the right time and place another order.br /

Some of the time promotional items can be used to draw in new orders directly from your existing loyal customers. You give them a promotional gift!item now and offer further ones from the set in the near future. This is a clever trick used by many of the big name companies across the world, especially in those dealing with children.br /

Promotional items can also be used to get your customers to advertise to their own contacts for you. When in the future they are using the items that you have printed with your logo they are showing these items to their own friends, work colleagues and contacts. They are leaving the diaries on their desks with your logos on the front. They are opening the golf umbrellas in the rain on the golf course with your logo printed on them. They are losing lots of golf balls on the golf course with your logo printed on them!br /

And you can also use some promotional gifts to encourage people to become new customers. At relevant trade shows and publicity events, you can cheaply arrange to hand out your promotional gifts to passing people. They then see your logo printed on the items when they get home and hopefully become your customers in the future.br /
